

Seeking adults who were caregivers for parents with dementia.

Researchers at Yale School of Medicine are seeking participants to share about their experiences caring for parents with Alzheimer's disease or dementia.

If you are 40-60 years old, living in the US, were a caregiver of a parent with late-stage dementia, and lost that parent 6 months to 3 years ago, you may be eligible to participate in a one-time, confidential virtual study. Participation involves a two-hour virtual interview. Your story will help us help other caregivers.

To learn more about this study and see if you are eligible, please contact Dr. Emily Mroz at 716-239-2467 or emily.mroz@yale.edu
